Are you looking for a new member for your board?

In a recent membership survey, half of our members indicated the importance of a service to assist them finding new board positions.

In response, the Australian Institute of Company Directors has launched Directorship Opportunities, a member service designed to promote available board positions to those seeking new or additional board appointments.

If you are part of an organisation looking for a new Director for your Board, you can submit a description of the position, including industry experience, qualifications and specialist skills required. This will then be promoted online to our highly targeted audience.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER: Organisations may list their available board positions FREE on Directorship Opportunities until May 2010.
